DUTY FIRST—POLITICS LATER

Lansing, March 19—Thomas E. Whatever success he may have had as a politician is undoubtedly due to the fact that he genuinely likes people and that liking begets a liking in return. In fact his definition of politics probably covers a situation. To him the art of politics is merely the art of making friends and keeping them.

There is no question but that for the cause of education he works both in season and out of season. While it is not common thing to do, nevertheless the various organizations of educators in the state have readily endorsed him not only for his work but also for continuance in office.

One point which is often overlooked is that Mr. Johnson is constantly endeavoring to see that the people of Michigan get their money's worth in the dollars they spend for education.

The law requires the Superintendent of Public Instruction to approve plans and specifications for buildings, but it is rare indeed that necessary expense is not cut out of buildings while they are being passed on by the department. Constantly Mr. Johnson and his associates are endeavoring to reduce expenditures particularly in the smaller high schools and the consolidated schools. His motto has always been that the people are entitled to everything possible for each tax dollar raised and expended. Most of the criticisms which have raised against him and his work have come from those who were anxious to keep the burden from being placed on those who could really afford to carry it, all of which certainly entitles him to the support of those who are interested in the welfare of their children and at the same time believe that the progress that takes place should not be at the expense of a rash wastefulness.

It is easy to criticize and we Americans are prone to criticize our public officials. Certainly, however, many of the criticisms hurled at Mr. Johnson are of a nature and from sources which should not in any way militate against his support at the polls.

CARL J. JENSON

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR

Township Treasurer

ELECTION APRIL 6, 1925

I take this means of presenting my candidacy to you for the purpose of offering my assurances of a careful and efficient effort in handling this office, if elected, and I trust I may be favorably accepted and considered.

Especially should consideration be given in selecting an officer for this duty, that tax-payers may be certain of having a convenient place easily reached during the period of tax collection. To this matter I would give special attention and provide such convenience for the benefit of the public, that they may not be caused any inconvenience in this matter.

My life long residence in Grayling, and a successful administration as a Village officer, I trust will merit the support of the electors at this election.

Yours res.
CARL JENSON.

W. H. U. DETROIT, NO. 14-1925.

WHAT STATE LAW MAKERS ARE DOING

No Voting Reform Is Likely At This Session Of The Legislature

Lansing, Mich.—Governor Alex J. Groesbeck's opposition to any type of primary election reform to party enrollment and to the pre-primary convention has made itself known. The hopeless election law tangle, which has only increased since the beginning of the session, reached a point where it is about certain no reforming legislation will be passed.

The senate passed the Wood election law bill on third reading. The bill passed, however, is not the Wood bill which was introduced, but a mere codification of the existing law. Still bearing Wood's name, but with all its party enrollment and election of delegates teeth nearly drawn, the bill was brought out of the committee, passed on general orders, put on its immediate passage under suspension of the rules and shot through the senate.

Rapid transit legislation, for Detroit has been sidetracked in the house of representatives. It was Governor Alex J. Groesbeck who pulled the switch turning the Detroit commission's enabling bill off the legislative right of way and back into committee.

The transit commission's bill was one of the first to be introduced at this session of the legislature. Twice it has been sent back to committee and amended to conform to ideas of manufacturers and business interests of Detroit. It was apparently acceptable to everybody interested, but the governor decided it was unconstitutional. He declared that it came to him in its present form he would veto it. Its present form is fundamentally the same as the enabling act of 1923, which he signed.

The house of representatives has expressed a desire to honor Edgar A. Guest, whose verse has won him national renown.

The Howell bill providing for the appointment of a poet laureate for Michigan by the governor was passed by a vote of 87 to 5.

Representative Chester M. Howell, of Saginaw, the introducer, explained that the bill was sponsored by Michigan citizens who are ready to petition the governor for the appointment of Guest in event the bill also passes the senate and is signed by the governor as is expected.

The position is purely honorary. It carries with it no salary. According to Howell, it is just intended to reward Guest for the cheer that his rhyme has brought to many hearts.

The University of Michigan appropriation bill, calling for an expenditure of $3,192,700, was reported out of the House University committee without amendment. But, it is reported authoritatively, the Governor and House leaders have agreed to grant the university nothing in the way of funds for new buildings except $900,000 for the proposed museum.

After heated debate in which motives of sponsors and critics of the bill were attacked, and the state department of health stayed as uneventful, the house of representatives voted to shunt the Smedley anti-stream pollution bill off the calendar and back into committee. Many members believe that by so doing they succeeded in killing the bill.

The members of the house who want the richer counties of the state to contribute toward the upkeep of schools in the needy counties, fought off two amendments to the John Primary School Fund Bill, and sent it sailing on its way to a third reading. Wayne county will lose $300,000 of its annual school funds if the bill becomes a law.

One of the bills passed by the House of Representatives would appropriate $69,000 for the State Sanitarium at Howell. Originally this bill called for an appropriation of $72,000, but the members of the Ways and Means Committee, with their eyes on the $14,500 mark set by Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck, had used their sharp axe.

The Bryant Bill, proposing the establishment of a fifth State normal college in the northern part of the state, was sent back to the committee by the House. It had been reported out by the Ways and Means Committee with a minor error in the phrasology and was sent back for correction.

Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck has denied a request of the governor of Indiana for the extradition of Albert O. Rogers of Indianapolis on a warrant for passing worthless checks.

The Pearson Bill, to relieve lands held for reforestation from the burden of excessive taxes, passed the Senate, having encountered no serious obstacles since it was introduced. It has gone to the House. Enactment of this bill into law would make possible the reforestation of more than one-third of the state's total area of 26,000,000 acres. It is estimated by officials of the bureau of agricultural industry, State Department of Agriculture, who have just completed results of a survey of 16 counties.

The Leland Potato Grading Bill, written to meet the objections of its assailants, was passed by the senate. It must still run the gauntlet of the House. The bill provides for three grades: "U. S. No. 1," "U. S. No. 1 small," and "U. S. No. 2." All others would be classed as culms. These grades are now being enforced by the State Department of Agriculture through the blanket authority it possesses, but the bill would strengthen the department's hand in court proceedings.

The League of Nations' activities are now being considered. It includes two new federal recommendations, the first being "support of resolutions permitting United States official representation in the disarmament conference when called by the League of Nations."

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Tornado Situation Well in Hand—Second Arms Conference Likely.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

THE aftermath of the five-state tornado of last week is an object lesson of the irresistible forces of nature before which even modern science is abashed; of the instinctive response to appeal from the afflicted that marks man as "little lower than the angels;" and of the remedial resources of our Twentieth century civilization.

Returns to date include these figures: 830 dead and 2,939 injured, with additional deaths daily and new cases of injury. Some bodies were presumably incinerated. There is still a list of missing. In 10 Illinois communities there are 635 dead and 2,110 injured. In Murphyboro, the largest city in the devastated area, the toll was 202 dead, 700 injured, 152 city blocks practically swept clean; property loss, $4,000,000.

Radio told the catastrophe. Instantly all roads led to the devastated areas. Herrin in "Bloody Williamson" faced with the best and lost its new $100,000 fire engine. High-priced surgeons from Chicago's "Gold Coast" operated by lantern-light. The torch of man-help, material necessities and cash-in-hand never slackened.

No close estimate can be made of the money raised and still being raised, Illinois finished the legislative process of appropriating $1,000,000 Wednesday. Chicago Wednesday filled its official quota of $500,000 and may run up to $750,000. Scores of organizations working independently have added many hundreds of thousands and the end is not yet. All will be reckoned.

The emergency period is over. The dead have been buried. The care of the injured and sick has been organized and systematized. Rebuilding is fast solving the problem of the homeless. Soon the long, slow work of rehabilitation will be under way.

This will be concentrated in the American Red Cross, which makes it a continuing process—it is still caring for victims of the tornadic tornado and the Pueblo flood.

THE Constitution, famous United States frigate, is now one hundred thirty-one years old; is rotting at her dock in the Boston navy yard; must be rebuilt for the third time. Congress has authorized her reconstruction, but has not appropriated a cent for it. Hoover's committee that he held unconstitutional the provisions of the budget act under which the comptroller general's office was holding an inquiry on McCullough's activities, Beck told the committee that he held unconstitutional the provisions of the budget act under which the comptroller general's office will collapse.

The President, who is the real defendant, will be represented by Solicitor General James M. Beck. Senator George Wharren Peper represents the senate. Beck's brief charges that McCullough holds that he is not bound even by the decisions of the courts.

In 1924, when the house-judicial committee was holding an inquiry on McCullough's activities, Beck told the committee that he held unconstitutional the provisions of the budget act under which the comptroller general's office was holding an inquiry on McCullough's activities. The secretary has transferred the buck to the 16,000,000 school children and asks them to contribute 2½ cents each.

Gen. George Steigner, commandant of the Boston navy yard, in charge of the campaign and his letter says:

"It is important that we should make clear we are not trying to help out the government in an economic program. The real matter involved is the interest of the people of the United States in an historical re-memorandum of the progress of the nation, and if the people are not willing to support such a proposition they ought not be compelled to do so by appropriations of congress, which in effect takes the money out of their pockets without their consent."

Passing this without comment, one thing is certain: August 18, 1812, when the Constitution put the American navy on the sea. In one memorable half hour she made the crack British frigate Guerriere strike her flag over a sinking wreck and a human shambles. Thereafter "Old Ironsides" outmaneuvered, outlasted and out-fought the ships of the proud "Misteress of the Seas," though whole squadrons were sent after her. Her dazzling exploits made strong against the fainting soul of the people and carried the new nation on to victory.

In 40 engagements "Old Ironsides" has never known defeat. To all the seven seas in 300,000 miles of cruising has she carried Old Glory. What!

...tear her tattered ensign down!

Long has it waved on high,

And many an eye has danced to see

That banner in the sky!"

A study of wages by the British ministry of labor, just completed in 10 cities, most of them world capitals (Philadelphia here), gives these computations:

Average wages in the United States, measured in the food they will buy, are now more than twice as high as those in London, three times greater than in Rome, Madrid and Vienna. They are nearly three times greater than in Norway, Sweden and Holland.

In the meantime our trade statistics show that the sales of our manufactured products are now about half of our exports. They also show that we annually sell the world nearly $80,000,000 more of American products than we did 15 years ago; that we sold the world $842,000,000 more last year than the year before, and that our sales are rapidly increasing. In short, we are winning in the world markets, including some of the commonwealths of the British empire. And we are competing and winning because the American workman does just about three times as much as the British workman in the same industry, thus more than offsetting the difference in wages.

And now comes Sir Charles Isham, once a member of parliament and now an advertising man, to teach us Americans to drop work at four o'clock in the afternoon for tea, after the English style. It will increase our efficiency 35 per cent, don't you know?

JURISDICTION over the patent of the water meter was transferred Friday by executive order of President Coolidge from the Interior department to the Department of Commerce, with the approval of both secretaries. Specific legislation by congress was unnecessary because of the act creating the Commerce department. Secretary Hoover of the Commerce department will demand an international convention to condemn the practice.

Secretary Hoover has developed the Commerce department into the largest thing of its kind in the world. Efficiency is the passion, and he is its shining exemplar. He has won the confidence of American business. If he stays in office long enough, he will bring about the co-operation of all agencies bearing upon the expansion of American business at home and abroad. The latest gossip is that he had a large hand in the appointment of Secretary Hartman of the Agricultural department; that they agree in their revision of the patent laws of the United States, which will bring about their equitable and equal treatment in all countries.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

Science and the Farmer.

Buy the Kind that Lives. Like it, (or dislike it, as we wish,) no reader or observer can deny that science is being applied to farming at a rapid rate.

The wise farmer will quickly seize the advantages that science brings him, and will thus avoid mistakes and losses that would swamp the unscientific neighbor.

In these columns mention has been made of treatment to prevent losses through hairless pigs.

Discussion will soon be given of methods to prevent bigneck or goitre in calves.

Today we wish to call the attention of our readers, in both town or country, to the method of preventing the great losses that annually occur with little chicks.

Many of these losses are caused by improper feeding of the young chicks, and by feeding too soon after being hatched.

Authorities of distinction tell us not to feed our young chicks before they are 60 to 70 hours old.

Proper methods of feeding from that time are fully given in a bulletin on baby chicks that I secured from the United States Department of Agriculture and of which I mailed a copy to every farmer in the country, and to some townfolk.

However, feed as skillfully as possible, we all know that there is usually too great a loss of young chicks, usually by bowel trouble or diarrhea. Some of this fatal diarrhea is caused by improper feeding.

Much of it is caused by another form of diarrhea called Bacillary White Diarrhea.

This last disease is incurable so far as any one yet knows.

Don't spend your money on so-called cures for it.

It is caused by a germ.

The young chick gets the germ from the egg. The egg gets the germ from the hen that laid the egg, and here is where science, the much despised paper-collared, book-learning comes in.

This is where skill, with one well-directed blow, knocks ignorance, mere brute force and superstition right out of the ring.

Skill (science) simply takes blood samples of hens from which it is proposed to get hatching eggs.

Science simply examines these very small samples of blood. If the blood samples act so and so, they know that the hen carries the germ of the deadly, Bacillary White Diarrhea, and none of her eggs are used for hatching, because her chicks stand a great chance of being so infected, which quite surely means certain death for them.

If the blood sample acts so and so the hen is believed not to carry the deadly diarrhea germs, and her eggs are used for hatching.

There you have it in a nutshell. Buy the kind that lives.

That means, buy day-old chicks of those firms that show a certificate of having tested the flock from which the eggs were saved from which the chicks were hatched.

To buy any other kind is to take the same kind of risk that a man takes when he buys a cow not tested for tuberculosis.

The time is near at hand when it will be impossible to sell to intelligent people cows not tested for tuberculosis, chickens from未经测试的, or even those whose percentages of germination and place of growth are not mentioned.

Ten Copies.

A few months ago Professor E. C. Foreman, of the Poultry Department of our Agricultural college, left that institution and went to a commercial day-old chick firm in Michigan.

Professor Foreman, though a young man, almost a fresh-faced boy, is conceded by all as a poultry wizard. He is a wonder at it.

Since going with this firm, he has written a 32 page book, which has been beautifully printed and illustrated.

I saw one of these books and secured ten copies. I will give these copies to people asking for them if I am satisfied that they will make good use of them.

The book is a complete guide to the successful raising of chickens and to the keeping of hens for profit.

Get Ready Now.

The farmer who really wants to have a good way to pay his grocery bill this winter will prepare right now to keep a lot of good hens. Good hens mind you and plenty of them! What can he do with 12 or 15 fat old loafers already too old to lay well?

He will plan right now, and prepare to raise a lot of good, suitable flocks.

How often have farmers in this country told me that they were not doing well with hens for they could not afford to buy the feed.

Of course they could not. What have they got the farm for if not to raise food for the family, feed for the cows, feed for the hens?

Raise Them.

Raising this feed should include cut potatoes, cabbage, mangies, corn, buckwheat.

If a farmer has no winter wheat in, let him sow some spring wheat for this emergency, and not fail to sow wheat on well-prepared, fertile soil, this fall.

Divide Your Troubles.

There are doubtless many in the county who really want to get lime, acid phosphate and alfalfa seed this spring, but who have not quite enough ready money.

There is a way out for them.

Let them get lime this spring, put it on the ground where corn will be planted this year, and get the phosphate and alfalfa or sweet clover next year, and this will divide their trouble.

A lot of people have gone in on the deal for alfalfa lime and fertilizer for this year, and am greatly pleased.

A lot more could get lime and put it on corn ground. While not a fertilizer, as we use the word, yet you will see that the corn will be darker green and more thrifty on account of the lime.

This will give the lime a year to get well mixed with the soil, and to correct soil acidity.

The lime will be in ideal shape to disc or drag in phosphates next year from this spring, and to put alfalfa on.

Lime is Cheap.

Without any profit we can deliver lime, lime in open cars, freight paid at these prices per ton: Frederic,

Get your Kodak out

You can buy it as cheap as the County Agent can. We simply get several to go in on a car, as few can swing a car alone.

Get Ten Tons.

Ten tons will cost only $28.00 at Frederic or Grayling, or $24.00 at Roscommon or Horrigan.

Ten tons will lime five acres.

With manure that will make a nice little block of corn.

A year from this spring put on the acid phosphate and alfalfa.

From that alfalfa cut a lot of the hay in the world.

Make this on a simple, inexpensive step forward.

Unless we do make simple, easy steps like this forward, why are we not going to twenty years from now right in the same fix we are in now?

Why run around and around in a small circle, like a mouse chasing its tail in a dish pan?

Choke Seed Corn and Seed Oats.

The County agent knows where to get choke seed corn, suited to this county, with a guaranteed germination of 95 per cent.

Don't plant any whose germination you do not know. It's a waste of time.

The right kind of oat for this region is the Wolverine. It has averaged better than any other kind for this soil.

The county agent knows where to get a lot of certified Wolverine seed oats which can be furnished the farmer at a dollar a bushel delivered at Grayling, extra if ordered with the cash, before the price raises as it always does just before seeding.

Why trip yourself up by using poor seed? Order now.
